

Pro Helvetia New Delhi has worked together with partners to achieve a common purpose: to support Swiss and Indian artists to seek dialogue with each others' cultures in an effort to forge closer ties.

Working with partners has been a conscious decision. Whether European partners or other local ones, the opportunity to pursue common goals, in our individual capacities, has added value to the work that Pro Helvetia does. Meaningful partnerships, on which our projects are established, are the foundation of the success of our projects.

Dance Platform 2010

Dance Platform 2010, comprising of seminars, workshops and work-in-progress performances, seeks to provide, to those engaged with contemporary dance in India, an opportunity to exchange views on its current practice with specialists from Switzerland and Germany. The objective of the platform is to facilitate a discourse on the field of contemporary choreography, thus enabling an exchange of ideas, views and techniques. More

Classical Music Re-imagined

Claudia Rüegg, a soloist and chamber musician from Switzerland, who is currently on a residency in India will perform at Olive, New Delhi on Sunday 21 February. Her broad repertoire includes an emphasis on 20th century music. The evening will also include a solo guitar performance by Shyamant Behal. More

Blue Remix - a journey through the skin

Blue Remix - a journey through the skin by Yann Marussich, a contemporary artist and choreographer from Switzerland is an hour-long performative installation of thermal regulation and precisely calculated timing. Yann creates a controlled biochemical choreography of methylene blue, which progressively seeps out of all the orifices in his body. More

Carnatic Vibes Zoom

When Karthik S, a percussionist from Bangalore, India met the Swiss percussionist Lucas Niggli during his Residency in Zurich in 2007, the atmosphere reverberated with the sounds of percussion instruments that hailed from across continents. Keen to take their music to new and unexplored spaces after a very fruitful and productive tour in India, Lucas and Karthik will now play with other members of the ZOOM trio and Sarah Büchi (vocals) in Switzerland.
